THE MONEY CIRCULATION.

We are often asked about the amount of money in circulation. We have got the figures, and if the people will remember them it will save repetition.

We simply give the money outside the treasury presumably in circulation—though it includes all hoardings and all bank reserves as well.

On the first day of July, the beginning of the fiscal year, there were outside the treasury in the hands of the people the following amounts and kinds of money:

Gold coin, $403,633,400; gold certificates, $92,970,019.

Silver dollars, $57,029,743; silver certificates, $326,489,165; subsidiary silver, $65,400,268.

Treasury notes, act July 14, 1890, $320,961,604.

United States notes—greenbacks—$320,875,683.

Currency certificates, act July 8, 1892, $11,935,000.

National bank notes, $174,731,139.

Or, in all—$1,593,726,411. When you deduct from this the reserve banks are required to keep on hand, the sums put away in old stockpiles and safe deposit drawers, there is not much left for train robbers and defaulting officials to get away with.

The amount on the first of July last was $109,346,977 less than at the same date in 1892.

VALUABLE ADVERTISING.

The Columbian edition of THE REPUBLICAN furnishes a most valuable method of advertising the Salt River Valley, and copies should be sent abroad liberally.

During a time of unsettled conditions is the time to place before the public our superior advantages—when everyone is prosperous, then the prosperity begets satisfaction and utter disinclination for change, but when every commercial and financial corn is being compressed by the tight boot of business depression, iteration of the trouble can be sought and successfully found in the superior advantages of our city and valley.

The attempt of Bank Commissioner Breidenthal, of Kansas, to boycott New York banks will not so much alarm New York bankers as amuse them. That is, if it is ever brought to their attention at all. The Kansas banks, through which the boycott is to operate, are generally run by men of common sense, and consequently they are not likely to do more than indulge in a good guffaw at the commissioner's expense. The first attempt to interfere with their business would, of course, be promptly met with an injunction, and when the case got into court the too enterprising commissioner would find how big a blunder he had made. Breidenthal will have to be placed alongside Osborn, Todd, Artz and the other Kansas officials who have written themselves down asses in big horse-bill letters.

It is announced that the Kansas editors will be allowed to take an excursion "at low rates" to Chicago. If anything makes an editor's heart sink it is to quote any kind of "rates" to him. Whatever his politics be he believes in free trade and reciprocity between railroads and newspapers.

WHILE it is true that most of the congressional chairmen are southerners, it must be admitted that if ability was what was wanted, Speaker Crisp was obliged to go to the south for his selections. The most of the Democrats from the north are very small potatoes.

THE REPUBLICAN practices what it preaches and preaches what it practices. The silver dollar is honored, both in the counting room and the editorial sanctum, at par.

Voting for the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law will kill as many "statesmen" as did the vote in congress on the slavery question along in the fifties.

It is probably true that a handsome, accomplished and wealthy young woman of New Orleans is going to marry Carter Harrison, but it is incomprehensible.

IT SEEMS to be settled that President Cleveland is in good physical condition. But is there any reliable information regarding the health of Secretary Thurber?

WHAT the Democratic party is most deeply thankful for at this time is that 1890 doesn't come in the fall of 1893.

BILLY'S JOKE.

The Story of a Mountain Goat Who Is of a Humorous Turn of Mind.

A mountain goat that I once kept in confinement was about as cunning as the average street arab, and, had he lived to maturity and kept on acquiring knowledge, the chances are I would have had to move out and give him the ranch.

He usually followed me, says a writer in Forest and Stream, on short excursions into the woods, and generally kept right at my heels; but on one occasion he lagged behind, and, although I called him several times, he paid no heed. I finally walked back to see what he was interested in and found him busy feeding on some moss that grew at the roots of a fir tree, so I left him and continued my tramp. But after I had got away a short distance the thought occurred to me to hide and see how he would act; so I slipped into a hollow stump close by the trail and awaited the result. Presently I heard him coming bounding along the trail, and after he had passed I stuck out my head to watch him. When he got twenty feet beyond me he stopped and commenced looking around, and the comical expression of his face as he scanned every object that bore any semblance to a human being caused me to burst out laughing, when he turned and saw me. Then he commenced to sulk and would not go any further, so I had to go home.

The next day he followed me as usual, but in the midst of some thick brush and down timber I got interested in a bird that I was following up, and forgot the goat, and when I came to look for him he was gone. Walking back to where I last saw him I called, but no "Billy" came in sight. Then I commenced a diligent search, and presently I caught sight of something white beneath a brush heap. Stooping down and looking in, I saw the little brute curled up in a heap, and not a move could I get out of him. Reaching in, I caught him by the leg and pulled him out, and gave him a good cuffing on both sides of his head. But he did not mind it a bit, and seemed to enjoy the joke immensely, capering about in his usual manner all the way home, as if he would say: "You hid from me yesterday and I hid from you to-day, and honors are even."

MOUNTAIN RAM AND PUMA.

A Furious Battle Which a California Hunter Witnessed.

bered land have yet to receive their visit from a white man. Col. William Denton, the well-known mining man and surveyor, was the undesigned witness of a savage and exciting contest while on his prospecting trip north of Calamogus some weeks ago, the particulars of which he related to a San Diego Union man. Attracted by a furious noise in the brush and the evident uneasiness of his animals he tied them securely and went forward to reconnoiter, unlimbering his gun for use if necessary. The sight that presented itself was certainly worth witnessing, as a battle royal between two magnificent brutes. A full-grown California lion had attacked a mountain sheep, and was finding its claws full in trying to let go. The sheep was of formidable size, and he used his monstrous horns with astonishing rapidity, backing off, stamping his feet with a quick jerk, and propelling himself at his foe like a sure-enough battering ram.

The great yellow puma, agile and watchful, leaped aside or into the air to escape the onslaught of the tartar he had caught, and with a lightning-like spring he would aim to clutch the ram behind the horns. But not once did the interested observer see the ram caught unawares. The heavy horns were swung quickly on the pivot of his sinewy neck, and received the clawing of the cat with no effect whatever.

Col. Denton watched the sport with all the zest of a sportsman, and, on indications that the belligerents were becoming mutually disgusted and about to separate and disappear, he embraced a moment when the ram stood stamping his fore feet preparing to dart forward, and gave him a bullet behind the shoulder. The ram leaped upward and forward, game to the last, and tumbled forward on his horns. Col. Denton then turned to pay his respects to the lion, but as the brute had already received more than it had bargained for, it was out of sight. The splendid horns of the ram were secured by the hunter as a trophy.
